Giovanni Caravelli: The Silent General Leading AISE for Another 2 Years

Published on 23/04/2026

The confirmation of Giovanni Caravelli at the helm of AISE is not just a choice of continuity, but a recognition of his pragmatic management and deep understanding of new global crisis scenarios. Army Corps General, Caravelli embodies the figure of the "servant of the State" away from the spotlight, yet central to national security dynamics.

Biography and Education

Born in Frascati in 1961, Caravelli has built his entire career on military and strategic excellence.

- Military Career: Artillery officer, he climbed the ranks of the Italian Army.
- Specialization: Expert in electronic warfare and communications, sectors that are vital today for modern technological intelligence.

- Field Experience: He has participated in numerous international missions, consolidating a geopolitical vision that spans from the Balkans to the Middle East.

The Rise in Intelligence

His entry into the world of intelligence occurred at the highest levels in 2014, when he was appointed Deputy Director of AISE. During that period, he worked side by side with then-director Alberto Manenti and later with Luciano Carta, becoming the Agency's "operational engine."

On May 16, 2020, he was appointed Director, succeeding Carta. His current confirmation reaffirms the trust that successive governments have placed in his ability to navigate extremely volatile contexts.

Key Dossiers and Critical Operations

Under his leadership, AISE has faced unprecedented challenges:

1. Libya and Sahel: Caravelli is considered one of Italy's top experts on the Libyan dossier, having managed delicate mediation networks to stabilize the area and contain migration flows.
2. The Pandemic: During the COVID-19 emergency, external intelligence played a crucial role in procuring medical devices and monitoring geopolitical dynamics related to vaccines.

3. The Ukrainian Conflict: Since the beginning of the Russian invasion in 2022, Caravelli has ensured a constant flow of information to protect Italian interests and coordinate the response with NATO partners.
4. Energy Security: With the gas crisis, AISE has actively supported the diversification of energy sources, monitoring critical infrastructures and relations with supplier countries.

Leadership Style

Caravelli is described by colleagues as a man of few words and much substance.

> "His strength lies in the ability to combine military precision with the diplomatic flexibility necessary to deal with governments and non-state actors in crisis areas."

His reconfirmation ensures Italy fundamental stability at a time when instability in the Mediterranean and new war fronts require expert leadership, capable of anticipating threats rather than merely reacting to them.
