«The United States of America has successfully conducted a large-scale attack against Venezuela and its leader, President Nicolás Maduro, who, along with his wife, has been captured and transferred out of the country».

These are the words with which Donald Trump announced the operation on his social media Truth.

According to the statement, the U.S. action against Venezuela culminated in the capture of President Nicolás Maduro and his wife, who were subsequently transferred out of the country at the end of the operation.

The episode is part of a context of strong political and security pressure on the Caracas government. In the preceding days, there were rumors about the presence of the CIA to coordinate a possible action by the special forces. During the night, helicopters linked to the 160th SOAR “Night Stalkers” (Special Operations Aviation Regiment) reportedly entered Venezuelan territory to enable the extraction of Nicolás Maduro and his wife by Delta Force operators, then transferred out of the country, in line with Trump's announcement.

Today at 11:00 AM local time (5:00 PM in Italy), a press conference will be held at Mar-a-Lago.
